

Benjamin Z. Ji

Director, Investment Banking

Mr. Ji joined Newbridge Securities as Director of Investment banking bringing more than thirteen years of Investment Banking, Capital Markets, and Securities Trading experience in both US and China, focusing on financing emerging growth companies originating out of Asia. Currently, he also serves as the Director of Asia Market in Newbridge Securities. Before joined NSC, Mr. Ji worked as Vice President of Investment banking in Westminster Securities and Senior Trading Strategist in a mid-size hedge fund in Georgia. He was previously a Senior Investment Manager in the Beijing office of Principal Investment Department at Shenhua Group Corporation Limited, a diversified state-owned enterprise with holdings in various energy sectors including coal, electricity, thermal generation, railway and port transportation. He also served as a Financial Associate in the Beijing office of Principal Investment Department of China Huaneng Group, a state-authorized investment entity with numerous state-holding corporations in the power sector. He received his undergraduate Civil Engineer degree from Tongji University in Shanghai, a Masters Degree in Computer Science from Wayne University, and a Masters in Mathematical Financial Management from Georgia State University.